

Welcome to the KOC Newsletter. Here we hope to bring you all the latest news on our activities as well as industry related developments.

2009 has been an interesting year for us and has been marked by a number of key acquisitions that will put us at the forefront of the sector in China. There have also been a few strategic moves which we are sure will consolidate our position.

The New Factory

Big news for all our clients is that the assemblies factory has moved to new premises. This happened in August and we now boast 4000m2 of production and office space. This is almost 3 times the space we had before and shows that KOC is preparing for better times in the not too distant future.

Ferrule Plant

Using Japanese technology and engineering know-how, KOC is now in charge of its own ferrule manufacture giving us tighter control of this aspect of the supply chain. Both MM and SM ferrules are in full production.

This is an important acquisition for us as it places us at the very edge of the assemblies sector in the region.

Expanding our borders

We are proud to announce that KOC will soon have local sales and marketing representation in both Russia and Turkey. As each of these territories has its own character we feel it's time to establish a firm presence there. More details to follow

ECOC 2009

The show is here again and KOC will be there exhibiting the latest additions to its range of FTTH solutions. Among these are our Fiber Sockets and MPO panels, high-capacity FOSC and Outdoor box for PLCS.

New Web and FTTH Council

We have been putting a great deal of effort into focusing our presence and raising awareness of our activities. This year sees the launch of our new website in conjunction with our recent membership of the FTTH Council. Don't forget to visit our site frequently for updates on product and information.

The FTTH Conference 2010 has now been announced, so look for us in Lisbon next February.
